

That we should fund the very real capability of ours to purchase a submarine, make it yellow. why not? in that being said, the submarine being purchased may be used to form a new, sane, rational government system. with members possessing humans innate sense of reason and reasoning. this being towards matters of living, in the practices of it. interpretations of objects and ideas or concepts towards the happening of same sex relationships of an sexual intimate nature, the use of medically provided apparatus- the technological improvement of - in the administration of drugs; in general. be it recreational, or therapeutic. the entire situation surrounding drugs is misconceived (by the majority of the human populace). it is that one-hundred years ago, prior to prohibition the people's conception of these things used to be very different. now, in my opinion, there is an oligarchy in control over the systems which are existing on our earth. this reasonably small number of people is where the money trail ends up. and it is, in my personal surveying of the matters and events and prospective circumstances i predict, is to essentially, as dramatic as it may seem, to enslave humanity. the initial steps is to psychologically condition them to being feeling safe and comfortable in their homes, incapable of venturing outside of a government imposed travel restriction, in distance. now - it would be my interpretation that in concerning small time, they will instigate legislation, by law, to for us to not be permitted outside in (apparent) outbreak and constant threat of the contraction of a totally killer virus. promulgated as being contagious enough to render our complete isolation to within our homes a mandatory necessity. But returning back to my explanation of the use of psychoactive substances in a recreational context, in reality they are powerful agents capable of inducing extreme phases of introspection. the capability of your looking into yourself and discovering revelation or resolve to particular dilemmas which may be impacting your life at the time. ibogaine is a substance which was discovered to actually treat various forms of mental disorder and illness. it has the potential (as it seems to not work exclusively) to in-fact allow an opioid (heroin, morphine, codeine, tramadol, etc) dependent, on a physical level, to entirely by-pass the physical and psychological symptoms of withdrawal, and through its ability to treat psychological (acquired) dispositions of a detrimental or unwanted nature, it has be identified to treat the underlying wanting to continue the use of such substances producing effects of emotional numbing and essentially really, and unfortunately, causing one to be feeling removed from existence... that being said, it can be comfortable... although i would say not at commonly used dosages... regardless, sorry. i am rambling... notwithstanding, following this substances discovery in its therapeutic potential in curing psychiatric problems, it was scheduled as a prohibited substance in the U.S. My point is that civil legislation and policy should be naturally derived and sane, in this context. Essentially to refer and adhere to our innate reason. This entity and congregation of folk, we may need multiple submarines or marine vessels - a fleet. regardless, we may use the entity to invade and protest and argue (reason) against their entirely arbitrary and absurdly formed civil policies and laws... i mean - prior to prohibition, one-hundred years ago, it is my understanding and logical one, at that, seeing that there exists not a single member out from the kingdom of animals; one which does not partake in the ingestion of psychoactive substances for the purposes of psychological alteration.

it is my personal taking on the matter that these alternate psychological placings, enable and promote the broadening of one's tolerance and understanding of other's ways of life and behaviours; their conduct in life. Now, using this, we could restore sanity upon earth, allowing us all the live in peace and harmony, throughout.

Once we have regained ownership and "control" over the continents, we may instate new government practices and it is my personal opinion that a functional and very practical government system, would be composed of persons of a myriad of walks of life. It should feature from the lowest socioeconomic gradation, the homeless, to ones higher up on the scale. for instance, doctors. also it should include creators of entertainment, persons involved in the creation of illustrated, musical, whatever forms, of art. and et cetera.

So, what do you guys say? :-D

BTW: My website, if anybody is interested (which is a total work in progress) is LINK and it aims to provide resource for (scientific) paper journal articles and things which governments - or government - is doing their best to hide out from public view. Which is just another issue plaguing the world today. In this era of "Established Insanity" which will be a chapter of the book which I am writing.

Alink to it is featured on the website. It is that you click on the question mark to enter the "main" section of the website. The lobby. Now I will say no more, and allow you to navigate it. REMEMBER!!! It is a work in progress!!! :-)

I wish you all a good day, and peace out.
